

Aaker on Branding: The Playbook to Building Strong Brands

By David Aaker, Varsha Jain

Paperback

9789373329437

₹850.00

Pages: 316

Description

Branding is more than a logo—it is the promise, personality, and purpose that shape every customer experience. David Aaker's work has long been the global gold standard for understanding how brands drive strategy, relevance, and loyalty.

This Indian adaptation by Varsha Jain builds on this foundation, exploring how to build powerful brands in India's vibrant, values-driven market. From Amul's cooperative roots to Tata's purpose-driven pillars, this edition highlights how Indian brands build communities, leverage social programs, and create "must haves" that resonate with millions. Readers will discover actionable frameworks—the SBs, brand vision pillars, and signature stories—tailored for India's digital, diverse, and purpose-driven market.

Whether you're a student building your expertise, a marketer crafting the next big campaign, or a founder shaping your brand identity, this book will guide you in creating brands that don't just sell—they matter.

Branding is a craft. With vision and conviction, you'll build brands that last.

About the Author

David Aaker, Varsha Jain

David A. Aaker is the Vice Chairman of Prophet, a global branding and transformation firm, and Professor Emeritus of Marketing Strategy at the University of California Berkeley Haas School of Business.

Varsha Jain is a Professor of Marketing, ESSCA School of Management, France.

Table of Contents

Introduction: Why This Book?

The Book Objectives

The Flow

A Note on Branding

The Bottom Line

Part 1 Recognize That Brands Are Assets

1 The 5Bs: Brands Are Assets That Drive Strategy

A Bit of History

From Tactical to Strategic

Focus on Brand Equity—The 5Bs

Brand Relevance

Brand Image

Brand Loyalty

Brand Portfolio

Brand Equity

Why Is It Hard?

The Bottom Line

2 Brand Assets Have Real Value

Dove—Elevating Women's Self-Esteem

16 Ways a Strong Brand Adds Value

Being Relevant Activates Passive Attention

Quantifying a Brand's Asset Value

Case Studies

The Payoff from Brand Building Programs

A Conceptual Business Strategy Model

The Bottom Line

Part II Have a Compelling Brand Vision

3 Create a Brand Vision

The Brand Vision Model

The Process

The AJAX Case Study

Adapting the Vision

Emphasizing Different Elements of the Pillar

Spinning the Brand Story for the Local Market

Augment with Additional Vision Elements

Strategic Imperatives vs. Proof Points

Branded Source of Credibility

Silver Bullet Brands

The Bottom Line

4 The Organization as a Differentiator

Commitment to Quality

Aspire to Be the Best

Prioritize Price/Value in Offering

Innovation

Focus on Customer Needs

Exhibiting Success and Leadership

Representing a Country or Region

Social Programs

The Bottom Line

5 Signature Social Programs That Energize, Differentiate, and Engage

Barclays

Hellmann's

Social Effort That Helps a Business Brand

Five Characteristics of Social Programs That Pop

Address Real Social Problems

Have a Strong Social Program Brand

Create Sizzle

Have a "Feel Right" Fit

Connect the Signature Social Program to the Business Brands

Adopting vs. In House

Thrivent and Habitat for Humanity

Mahindra and Nanhi Kali Partnership

Finding the Right Nonprofit

The Bottom Line

6 A Brand Personality Connects

Building a Brand—Why a Brand Personality?

Represent and Communicate Functional Benefits

Provide Energy

Define a Brand Relationship

Guide Brand-Building Programs

Help Understand the Customer

What Brand Personality?

Making It Happen

The Bottom Line

7 The Role of a Branded Differentiator

Types of Branded Differentiators

A Branded Feature

A Branded Ingredient

A Branded Technology

A Branded Service

Branded Programs

The Value of Branding It

The Yin and Yang of Brands

The Bottom Line

8 Get Beyond Functional Benefits

Emotional Benefits

Self-Expressive Benefits

Social Benefits

Combining Benefits

Which Benefits?

The Bottom Line

Part III Branding and Disruptive Innovation

9 Create “Must Haves” Rendering Competitors Irrelevant

“Must Haves”

Sourcing “Must Have” Opportunities

Evaluating Potential “Must Haves”

Is the Concept Significant to the Marketplace? Is There a “Must Have”?

Can the Offering Be Created?

The Bottom Line

10 Branding: The Secret Sauce in Disruptive

Innovation

Become the Exemplar Brand and Define the Subcategory

How to Become an Exemplar

Defining the Subcategory

Framing

Building Barriers

Earn Exemplar Status

Innovate Becoming a Moving Target

Brand the Disruptive Innovations

Create, Grow, and Hold a Loyal Customer Base

The Bottom Line

Part IV Bringing the Brand to Life

11 Nine Brand-Building Actions That Work

Dove—Elevating Women’s Confidence and Self-Esteem

Building a Brand

Find and Employ Branded Energizers

Innovative/Dynamic

Involving/Engaging

Interesting/Exciting

Passionate about a Social Program

Mobilize Your Employees

Explore External Role Models

Establish Success Measures

The Bottom Line

12 Signature Stories

Sourcing Stories

The Power of Stories

Stories Get Attention

Stories Inhibit Counter-Arguing

Audience Discovers the Argument

Positive Feelings Are Created

Stores Are Remembered

From Stories to Signature Stories

Keeping Signature Stories Alive

The Bottom Line

13 Symbols and Taglines

Symbols

Why Taglines Work

The Bottom Line

14 Brand Communities

Etsy

A Brand Community

Self-Expressive Benefits

Social Benefits

Informational Benefits

Gaining Involvement

Communities not Integrated into a Business

Passive Members

How Brand Communities Help Signature Brands

When is a Brand Community a Brand Community?

The Bottom Line

15 Three Threats to Brand Relevance

Subcategory is Declining

Gain Parity

Reposition

Leapfrog the Innovation

Stick to Your Knitting

Disinvest or Exit

Select the Right Response

The Emergence of a Reason-Not-to-Buy

Negate the Negative—Hyundai

Addressing a Perceived Trust or Ethical Issue

Change the Discussion

Playing Defense Can Work

Brand Has Lost Energy

The Bottom Line

16 Consistency Wins Build and Reinforce vs. Adapt and Change

Brand Consistency That Builds and Reinforces

Forgoing Consistency

Challenging Motivations

The Marketplace Has Changed

Responding to an Organizational Opportunity or Need

Beware of Change Biases

The Bottom Line

Part V Managing Your Brand Portfolio

17 You Need a Brand Portfolio Strategy

Branding a New Offering—The Brand Relationship Spectrum

Driver Roles

The Brand Relationship Spectrum

Selecting the Right Position on the Spectrum

Two Additional Brand Roles

Brand Priorities within the Portfolio

Trimming the Portfolio—an Evaluation and Consolidation Process

The Bottom Line

18 Brand Extensions: The Good, the Bad, and the Ugly

The Good—The Brand Enhances the Extension Offering

Relevance/Visibility

Brand Associations

More Good—The Extension Enhances the Brand

The Bad—The Brand Fails to Help or Even Inhibits the Extension

The Ugly—The Extension Damages the Brand

Diluting Existing Brand Associations

Undesirable Attribute Associations Get Created

The Brand Fails to Live Up to Its Promise

Finding Extension Candidates

Branding a New Offering with an Existing Brand

Identifying Extension Opportunities

Thinking Strategically

Putting Extension Risks into Perspective

The Bottom Line

19 Vertical Brand Extensions Have Risks and Rewards

Moving into a Value Market

Risks

Branding Options to Reduce Risks

Moving a Brand into a Super-Premium Market

Risks

Branding the Upmarket Entry

The Bottom Line

Part VI Spanning Silos

20 Silo Organizations Inhibit Brand Building

Toward Silo Cooperation and Communication

Teams and Networks

Nonthreatening CMO Roles

A Standardized Marketing Planning Process and Information System

Allow Brands to Adapt to Silo Contexts

Make the Silos Assets Rather Than Barriers

Get CEO/Organizational Support

Functional Silos—The Other Silo Problem

The Bottom Line

Epilogue: Sixteen Branding Takeaways

Acknowledgments

About the Author

About the Adaptor

Endnotes

Index

To purchase this product, please visit:

<https://www.wileyindia.com/aaker-on-branding-the-playbook-to-building-strong-brands.html>

Scan to buy